Understanding Cookies

A "cookie" is a small text file that can be stored on your computer, smartphone, tablet, or other device when you visit a website or use an app.

Cookies contain information that is transferred to your device and some cookies may collect personal data about you. You can find more general information about cookies on the Information Commissioner's Office website at <https://ico.org.uk/for-the-public/online/cookies>.

Cookies are very useful for websites and do lots of different jobs which help to make your experience on our site as smooth as possible. For example, they let you move between web pages efficiently, remembering your preferences, and generally improving your experience.

Managing cookies through this website

Our website uses different types of cookies and uses a system called Cookiebot to help you view and manage your cookie preferences.

We use Necessary cookies to help ensure our website works correctly. These cookies are essential for the operation of our website and will remain active for the duration of your visit unless you choose to specifically disable them by changing your browser settings. If you do disable these cookies, please be aware that some parts of our website may not function correctly.

We also use various Optional cookies for insight purposes to collect information about how you use our website which can help us improve your experience. These optional cookies collect information in an anonymous way and you cannot be identified as an individual through the data we collect. Some optional cookies are placed by third party services that appear on our pages.

All optional cookies are inactive for the duration of your visit unless you specifically consent to enable them. You can view details of the various optional cookies we use and choose to enable/disable them by clicking the Details tab within the CookieBot tool that will display when you first visit our site.

You can also view details of the various optional cookies we use at any time by clicking on the Cookies link located in the menu bar in the footer section of our site. Each optional cookie is displayed in a table on this page, alongside a category and a description. At the bottom of this page, you can re-open the Cookiebot tool which will allow you to manage your cookie preferences by enabling/disabling the specific optional cookies shown in the Details tab.

If you change any settings, you may need to refresh the page for your changes to take effect. If you do disable any optional cookies, you may find that certain parts of our website do not work correctly or do not work at all.
